Indiana National Changes.

Alterations amounting to almost a complete remodeling are being made in the Indiana National Bank, and when they are completed it will be one of the most commodious and best lighted banking rooms in the city. An addition has been built in the rear of the room now occupied, with a large skylight running the full length of the room. The vault was being placed in its new position in the rear of the addition yesterday, and when the work, which will occupy several weeks is completed occupy several weeks, is completed banking rooms will be moved back the new part. #### PRISON LAWS REFORM

One Reason Why Indiana Has So Many Habitual Criminals.

Neighboring States Have Laws for "Habituals"-Convicts Should Have the Warden's Ear Occasionally.

In its annual report for 1893 the Board of State Charities discusses at some length laws for the improvement of prison systems in various States and the practicability of their adoption in Indiana. In speaking of these matters the report says:

"One of these laws provides for the perpetual imprisonment of professional or habitual criminals. If a person has been convicted a given number of times, he is regarded as an habitual criminal and upon conviction may be sentenced to prison for life. A modification of this law provides as the same can be done; and the court being satisfied that a second dividend can be ordered without injuring the rights of recurrent conviction until after several convictions the length of sentence becomes so great that it is almost equivalent to life iterrisonment. In some prisons where the indeterminate sentence is not provided for, a certain amount of classification of prisoners has been made with salutary results. Prisoners whose conduct and industry are commendable are promoted to a higher grade in which they are given certain advantages and privileges which those in other grades do not receive. Those whose conduct is bad on the other hand are reduced to a lower grade in which the advantages and privileges are reduced to the nanimum. Another valuable adjunct to any prison is a night school in which illiterate prisoners may be taught the rudiments of an English education, and if possible, led into a higher plane of thought and purpose. It has been long demonstrated that a large per cent. of criminals turn to crime because they are incapable of entering into honorable competition in the struggle of life with their more intelligent and progressive fellow-men. Anything which can be done in prison to equip the criminal to make an uonorable living increases the probability of his re-

> "The States adjoining Indiana on the east and west have adopted the habitual criminals law-that is, the law which provides for the continual imprisonment of persons who, by successive convictions, have been proven to be habitual criminals. The operation of these laws naturally tends to drive the worst class of criminals from the States, and Indiana, lying between them, without such a law, becomes a place of refuge, convenient and comparatively safe." In discussing the essentials of a humane prison management, the board, in its report, expresses the following views: "In order to prevent abuses on the part of subordinate prison officers and to keep the principals in the management of the prison thoroughly informed as to the de-tails of interior prison administration, it is essential that there shall be some ready and reliable means by which the prisoners may communicate directly with the warden. This is a matter which is not so easily provided for as might at first appear. Several facts must be taken into consideration. Prisoners are proverbially inclined to complain of their lot. A very large majority of their com-plaints are trivial or unreasonable, and it would require considerable time for the warden to hear and pass judgment upon all. The demands upon the warden are many and onerous, and the time required in listening to the complaints and petitions which would be presented to him if the oppor-tunity were freely offered to all might in-terfere somewhat with the performance of other duties. On the other hand there is no requirement of prison management more mperative than that the prisoners shall be treated with justice and humanity. The bitterness of injustice is intensified when there is no appeal from it. In the constant association between prisoners and guards inequalities and other wrongs are certain to frequently occur. Guards become incensed against certain prisoners under their charge and make them a butt for petty persecu tion, put the worst construction upon all their acts, take quick advantage of opportunities to report them for mistakes, subject them to taunts or ridicule, or other methods of abuse which are difficult to deine, and which the prisoners cannot resent without being liable to severe punishment. "Unless the prisoners can communicate directly with the warden freely and promptly, abuses of this nature may become almost unendurable without the warden having any knowledge of their existence. Prisoners who by just treatment might reform and return to the world law-abiding citizens may be embittered by prison treatment to such a degree that they will be driven permanently into the ranks of crime. The communication of the prisoners with the warden should be made possible without the mediation or knowledge of the guards. Otherwise any complaint against a guard might subject the complaining prisoner to abuse and indignities from the guard thereafter. The impor-tance of some adequate provision for direct communication between the prisoners and warden is such that it greatly out-weighs the difficulties in arranging for it. After carefully considering this matter for several years, this board firmly believes that some plan may be devised by which the benefits of convict communication with the warden may be derived without seriously infringing upon the warden's duties in oth-er directions."

APPEAL FOR MORE FUNDS.

The Work of Relieving the Needy Must Be Continued.

The relief committee acting in connection with the Commercial Club committee has issued the following appeal:

"The committee of citizens which undertook to raise funds for the relief of the destitute people here procured subscriptions for something more than $17,000. Of this amount over $7,000 has not been paid—though part of it is not due—and there will be a shrinkage of at least 10 per cent. for various reasons. As the funds are nearly exhausted now, there not being enough eash to pay the current bills, we beg every subscriber who has not paid, to do so at once, if possible. Some of the soliciting committees have never finished their work or reported, and we ask them to do so without delay. A meeting of the committee, including all subcommittees, will be held next Tuesday night at 7:30, in the assembly room of the Commercial Club, and the presence of every member is needed, as a cri-

"It will be necessary to act promptly, for more money must be had or the work must be stopped. A full report of what has been done and the probable needs will be given to the meeting and the public. The forebodings as to the magnitude of the work have been fully realized; it is only about half done now, and if continued until the usual employment in the spring begins, it will cost as much more as has been spent. That great good has been done and evil averted no one can doubt who is fa-miliar with the existing conditions. It must be continued as long as the unusual destitution prevails. We shall appeal to the generous people of Indianapolis for further contributions. Respectfully IOHN H. HOLLIDAY, Chairman. LOUIS HOLLWEG, Treasurer. C. C. FOSTER, Secretary.

Prohibitionists of Marion County Hold a Convention.

They Think the Liquor Traffic Is at the Bottom of the Present Financial Depression.

The Marion county Prohibitionists, in convention, yesterday, nominated the following ticket, county and legislative: For auditor, Dr. Smith; treasurer, R. N. Cosby; recorder, W. F. Clark; clerk, G. P. Kibbey; sheriff, George F. Jenkins; coroner, Dr. Albert Barnes; surveyor, Carl Osborn; prosecuting attorney, S. D. Lafreze; criminal judge, W. J. Beckett; County Commissioners, First district, Harvey Fatout; Third district, Hadley Reeves; Legislature, J. G. Kingsbury, E. L. Frazier, F. M. Rainsey, W. H. Tice, B. M. Lawrence,

Nearly a hundred members of the organization responded to the call of the county chairman, B. F. Watson. A number of ladies were present, representing the W. C. T. U. The convention met at 10 o'clock, in Room 3, Superior Court, opening with a prayer by Mr. Rippatoe. B. F. Watson presided, with Edward Shiel, of the State committee, at the secretary's desk. The chairman appointed Pleasant Bond, J. A. Sims, Robert Denny, L. Calvin and J. S. Kingsbury on the committee on resolutions. Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Brown were selected as delegates to the State convention. The resolutions adopted at the morning session were in relation to the fee and salary law. The committee thought that it allowed the Marion county offices too much money and was convinced that Prohibitionists could fill the offices at half the present cost. The appointment of a brewery agent to the office of county recorder was condemned. F. T. McWhirter was not entirely satisfied with the report of the committee on resolutions. He thought the body should have declared the liquor traffic at the bot-tom of the present financial difficulties. He was backed by S. A. Haines, the party's last candidate for Mayor, who asserted that the fact was well established and could be proved. He believed that the people should not longer be kept in the dark in this matter. The resolution was referred back to the committee and the convention adjourned

At 2 o'clock the body was again ready to report. Resolutions were adopted at great length. It was declared that the traffic in alcoholic beverages is a public crime and should be designated as such in the statutes. Also that the manufacture, importation and exportation of such beverages should be prohibited by law. All class legislation is believed to be wrong. "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none" is recommended as a government motto, and it is declared that the general government without the intervention of banks should issue the circulating medium of a sufficient vol-ume for the transaction of the business of the country in a manner just to the debtor as well as the creditor class; this circulating medium to consist of gold and silver coin and United States treasury notes, each to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and each to be taxable. The liquer traffic is recognized as a bar to the employment of 500,000 men annually for causes set out as follows: "The United States census of 1890 shows an expenditure of one thousand million dollars annually for intoxicating liquors at retail; and that in the manufacture of such liquor only one man is employed one year for the output of $16,500 of malt liquors and one man to $83,300 of distilled liquors, employing in the entire product less than ten thousand men in the United States, and on the other hand, the seven leading industries, to-wit: the manufacture of silk, cotton and woolen goods, iron and steel products, bakery products, etc., employ one man to each $2,000 of output at retail." It is declared that there is no overproduction of useful commodities, but an underconsumption because of the enormous drain of the liquor traffic, hence not less than 800,000 men are unemployed whose labor would be demanded by the abolition of the liquor traffic. In behalf of the taxpayers of Marion county it is demanded that the and other recognized evils.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is hailed as a faithful and powerful ally in the work of moral reform, the purification of politics and the perpetuation of civil and religious liberty. It is emphatically declared that no restriction on suffrage shall

F. T. McWhirter closed the convention with a speech. He advised his people to be-ware of the party who nominated good men and then "side-tracked" the Prohibitionists. He believed that the Republican party intended to put its very best men to the front this year, but he feared that the Democrats, should they be successful, would advocate a wide-open liquor administration.

DECREASE IN GLANDERS.

This Dread Disease Among Horses Becoming Less Frequent.

Charles Downing, V. K. Officer and M. S. Claypool, the committee of the State Board of Agriculture in charge of the revision of the premium list, were hard at work yesterday trying to formulate a list for the next fair that will be satisfactory to everybody. President Sankey and Secretary Kennedy were with the committee giving them all the assistance possible in the difficult task. The State board will meet Tuesday when the committee's report will be ready, rules and regulations will be adopted and the superintendents of the several depart-

President Sankey, who is the Terre Haute member of the Indiana State Live Stock Sanitary Commission, says there is not as much glanders by 50 per cent. in this State to-day as when the law was enacted in 1889 creating the commission. The other members of the commission are Samuel Bowman, president, South Bend; Geo. W. Hall, of Raleigh; Mortimer Levering, of Lafayette, and C. M. Stull, of South Bend. Mr Stull is State veterinarian. The commission is investigating the lump jaw cattle agitation in northern Indiana. The stock yards at Hammond were rigidly inspected but not one case of lump jaw did the members discover among all the cattle examined The State veterinarian is subject to much risk in examining animals supposed to have glanders. If one of the infected beasts happens to sneeze near him Mr. Stull loses no time in thoroughly washing himself. A case in point happened not long ago and the members of the commission were afraid he might have become infected with this horrible disease, for which there is no cure, but fortunately he took prompt measures and had no trouble Some months ago the horse driven by the fire chief here was found upon examination by the State veterinarian to have glanders and was promptly killed. The existence of the disease was not suspected until a few

Allen Hill, who was arrested at the instance of Mrs. Helene Pink for passing a counterfeit silver dollar at her grocery and saloon, No. 196 Indiana avenue, was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Van Buren yesterday. According to the testimony, Hill offered to redeem the dollar after he had passed it, but Mrs. Pink wouldn't give it up, announcing her intention of having him arrested. She says he offered her $5 if she would not report the case, but she refused to be bought off. Hill is a colored cook at the Commercial Club restaurant, and some of the members of the organization took enough interest in him to urge his release on his own recognizance, that he may be able to accept a situation which has been secured for him in Tennessee. The commissioner let Hill go on his recognizance in $500, the man promising to return here if the grand jury wanted him
